

Taking the pressure out of presents

If you're one of those people who finds finding the right gift a major headache you'll love My Perfect Giftbox launched, just in time for Mother's Day, by Kate Harpham and Julie Hudson.

Giving gifts that are personal, luxurious and beautifully presented takes a lot of time and dedication – and today's lifestyle is so busy for most of us that shopping for presents is more of a panic-stricken dash than a pleasurable experience. Kate and Julie have a passion for gifts and aim to ensure that both the giver and receiver just love the whole gift experience.

Their new business features a collection of hand-picked, aspirational products for every occasion, all beautifully presented in a gift box and you don't need to break the bank with prices from just £25.

My Perfect Giftbox is based in Woodham Mortimer – but you don't need to leave home, just browse the website at <http://www.myperfectgiftbox.com> and you'll lose all that present pressure and those frantic shopping expeditions. ■
